"AUDACI DICER" (Uccera)

SUNDAY, JULY 20, 1893.

Congress on the Capital.

The Chamber of Senators met on Sunday at 12.20, there being present 19 members—After reading the act of last session, the capital bill was called for 2nd, or special, reading.

Dr. V. Almon said: The Committee has doubted whether it is the wisest to annex the present capital and therefore leave the point open.

Dr. Navarro said: I understand that several of my colleagues are of my opinion that it is better to postpone for some time the definite appointment of Metropolis. I propose to put off such discussion until the session of 1893.

Dr. Sarsfield: It is better to fix a temporary residence for the National authorities. It is objected that this will cause public vacation and anxiety, yet I find it more prudent to leave the matter a year's consideration.

Dr. Gonzalez: We cannot entertain new notions until the Act is voted.

Dr. Sarsfield: This article must be settled, pro or contra, before sending the bill to the Provincial Chambers.

Dr. Almon: Let us fill up the blank in this Act.

Dr. Sarsfield: Some of us do not want a Metropolis, having a provisional capital.

Dr. Costa, prime Minister, said: I propose an immediate change of Art. 1. When five of our most intelligent statesmen are not of accord, it is proof that this vexed question is untimely. Different means are formed, and I fear that San Nicolas, San Fernando and even Escondido, yet these are fanciful. It would be better to decide at once whether Buenos Aires should become permanent capital, this Province can frankly express her will. No doubt she is peculiarly favored for the seat of Government, possessing a foreign port, a harbor, which is the very strongest element of her power and riches. Unfortunately it is not the opportunity to propose such a question.

We have lately known of our triumphs, and it might be well that we made an abuse of our success. Let some time elapse, that party spirit may grow more calm, and then I will speak. If not Buenos Aires, I see no other capital but Rosario; neither can we choose that city, which has been the champion of different dunes, and I would not wish to see this. Thus there would be even greater danger in naming Rosario. At present it is not urgent to settle this point, it is sufficient to propose Buenos Aires as the seat of the national authorities. None of this assembly excepting Dr. Sarsfield, has wished to transfer at once the Executive from this city. Let us then leave this point open.

Dr. Almon: I perceive the Minister has wished to leave the idea of making Buenos Aires permanent capital, which I wished in this Act to avoid that necessary hunting myself to the question whether the advantage at this time to the Metropolis.

Dr. Costa then spoke, and he defined the point for fixing the permanent capital. I mention to Sr. Navarro's proposal of postponing it till 1893.

Dr. Costa then ended.

hibition, Congress will fix the Metropolis.

Two years later, the National Authorities will remove thither.

Dr. Almon said: The principal objection to this is that public opinion is now so agitated, and it is unwise to leave this stormy atmosphere to smolder on. This would be a better room for discussion and produce no possible benefit. On the other hand it is proper the people should know that, in the event of a change, it is not to be the capital, and not to be in dangerous uncertainty. Three years hence we shall have far less difficulties now that we have no time to lose, and no time to work. The first committee proposed three years, but I increased it to five years at the request of the Government. If the Minister cannot advance better arguments in support of his measure, I see no motive to change my former opinion.

Dr. Almon said: I was also one of the commission's most opposed to leave the point of Metropolis open, but seeing the numerous difficulties it involved, I yielded. No one can change. I find it more prudent to leave the matter a year's consideration.

Sr. Gonzalez: We cannot entertain new notions until the Act is voted.

Dr. Sarsfield: This article must be settled, pro or contra, before sending the bill to the Provincial Chambers.

Dr. Almon: Let us fill up the blank in this Act.

Dr. Sarsfield: Some of us do not want a Metropolis, having a provisional capital.

Dr. Costa, prime Minister, said: I propose an immediate change of Art. 1. When five of our most intelligent statesmen are not of accord, it is proof that this vexed question is untimely. Different means are formed, and I fear that San Nicolas, San Fernando and even Escondido, yet these are fanciful. It would be better to decide at once whether Buenos Aires should become permanent capital, this Province can frankly express her will. No doubt she is peculiarly favored for the seat of Government, possessing a foreign port, a harbor, which is the very strongest element of her power and riches. Unfortunately it is not the opportunity to propose such a question.

We have lately known of our triumphs, and it might be well that we made an abuse of our success. Let some time elapse, that party spirit may grow more calm, and then I will speak. If not Buenos Aires, I see no other capital but Rosario; neither can we choose that city, which has been the champion of different dunes, and I would not wish to see this. Dr. Costa then spoke, and he defined the point for fixing the permanent capital. I mention to Sr. Navarro's proposal of postponing it till 1893.

Dr. Costa then ended.

feeling, we cannot afterwards change without serious prejudice. If we name Buenos Aires we give subject for opposition from this province; if, Rosario, we revive ancient animosities. It is clear that we cannot resolve at present, since we must choose one or other in 2 or 3 years the occasion will offer.

Dr. Sarsfield said: The only objection is the doubt caused in the public mind, but I think it is enough to provide a temporary residence until such time as Buenos Aires must suffer a trench, for some time. I would sacrifice, for only my opinions, but my life for the sake of peace. Here in B. have important measures to discuss, such as the Cordoba railway and Nat. debt, which I had intended to propose. What use do I make in a metropolis, when we do not intend to remove the Nat. authorities. No one can entertain the idea of permanently localizing this province. It is useless to postpone the question for a year. Meaning peace is guaranteed by the elements of power appertaining to Buenos Aires; and this matter will be solved in the press and elected this city.

The President then put to the vote Art. 1.

Art. 1.—No. 12.

Dr. Sarsfield said: As the Senate has rejected the Committee bill they cannot fail to accept my project.

Dr. Sarsfield: Call a Convention until the end of 4 years.

Sr. Elizalde: Congress cannot make a negative law, prohibiting the consideration of this subject for 3 years.

After several contradictory objections from Sr. Sarsfield, Elizalde and Almon, the Chamber retired. On resuming their seats the bill was passed.

Art. 15, No. 3.

Art. 2. During three years the National authorities may reside in Buenos Aires, for evaluating the results of this province.

Art. 15, No. 4.

Art. 3. Buenos Aires remains under full metropolitan protection.

Art. 15, No. 5.

Art. 4. In matters of pensions, military grades &c, Buenos Aires is guaranteed the enjoyment of such until Congress otherwise decrees.

Dr. Sarsfield objected that B. should feel nothing but a name.

Art. 11—No. 5.

Art. 5. The treaties excepted from Buenos Aires are hereby excluded from affecting the Prov.

Art. 11—No. 5.

Art. 6. The Municipalities are empowered to levy taxes &c, at their discretion.

Dr. Sarsfield condemned the latitude of Municipal power, which tended to absolute sovereignty.

Dr. Almon reported the just complaints against these bodies, and to the neglect of the provincial authorities in revising their charters.

Dr. Carril insisted that Congress could not legislate for a province not yet federated.

Art. 15, No. 4.

Art. 7. The executive for administrative regulation shall be elected by the people.

Dr. Navarro said: They may, then, elect a governor.

Dr. Sarsfield said: There can be no Governor in a federated province.

Art. 11—No. 5.

Art. 8. Buenos Aires is invited to send one law, provided for the annual between Sr. Sarsfield and Elizalde, the former gaining credit and Elizahe by his vigorous defence of provincial rights. The hour being advanced we are obliged to hold over a fuller report till next impression.

Montevideo.

The Liberator arrived yesterday morning, bringing the week's news.

The Menny, owing to the bad weather, had been unable to discharge her cargo.

The "Reforma Pacifica" has been accused for libel in its last month's review for Europe. Retarding the "Pacifica," the Calvo has accused Sr. Pece for libel. So the jury trials in Montevideo will afford some slight amusement in the coming week.

We are glad to perceive that the "Reforma" goes in with the "Standard" for the abolition of the Montevideo human export tax, commonly called the patente.

On the 28th ult, we read that the French Minister and the Minister of the Oriental Republic signed a convention, regulating the payment of the long due claims.

We are glad to see the matter settled, and have no doubt the interest on the bonds given in satisfaction of such claims will be paid regularly.

The "Reformista" says that the government of San Juan having broken the treaty or convention entered into with the Province, that reduced her to a state of anarchy, she is preparing for another campaign. We are afraid the Buenos Aires correspondent of the Reformista will gain for himself some honor on the death of Dr. Rosales in the States and that these constant rumors, &c, are written more for a metallic effect than anything else.

We notice the constant denial of three newspapers, "El Comercio," "El Zepiron," "El Esmeraldino" and the R. P. asserts that "El Pueblo" is in rapid communication.

For robberies in Montevideo are nearly as numerous as those in Buenos Aires, and the gas companies, both here and there, are the subjects of severe complaints.

In Mercedes, there is "the devil among the tailors." The two newspapers are fighting like killed. The judges, the result of the conduct of the judges, in sticking out an innocent man, is strongly and acutely denounced.

Both native and foreign papers have been put to bed by the publication of the names of the republic, the greatest rigour and severity be used in convicting the parties implicated in the murder of the German family.

The Reformista appears, is about being accused of libel, for some article it has published, reflecting on "la Junta." Were one of the jury, we know what verdict we should return, but we are afraid that trial by jury in Montevideo is not altogether the province of pre-judicial men.

Men are not to be divided into different political opinions, and they should never forget that in entering the jury-box, all prejudices should be laid aside.

The Reformista in attacking the point for squandering money, if charge he true, is a noble mission of the liberty and independence of the republic.

The Banco Bank has at last got its charter; it is too long to publish in detail; we may observe that the capital will be 300,000. The Reformista says that the bank had not received double the amount of paid-in capital; the paper commission shall be payable on demand, in specie, in ounces, or in gold or silver.

Any failure on the part of the bank to pay in specie on demand or to maintain for a given time, will amount to a bankruptcy; and entitles the creditors to demand a winding-up of the concern.

Holders of bills or paper money of this bank, have 33 creditors, stand on the same footing as bona fide depositors.

We are glad to see that the Argentine government has legalized the steamers running between this city and there; but we are surprised to perceive that the loss of the mail-boats entails no loss of this bank's shares.

We apprehend this is rather a low estimate for the correspondence carried on between the two ports, taking it but granted that the newspapers that come and go each trip are as much waste-paper.

We learn with much pleasure that the transport system will soon be abolished.

Simon Bocanegra.

It is seldom we have experienced such pleasurable emotions as on Friday night at the second performance of Simon Bocanegra.

Mañana Altieri sang very well, in fact we think she has improved on the Traviata which we had hitherto considered her cheval d' bataille.

Her voice is very mellow and sweet and from our experience of the music of the Traviata, for a given time, felt bound to state that we did not think she would come out so triumphantly. Yet our expectations were charmingly disappointed.

Altieri began the aria of the second act with her accustomed sweet accents, but gradually raising the pitch of her voice in harmony with the orchestra she attained the high notes characteristic of this piece with complete success.

The previous judgment we had formed of this opera has been fully proved. The music is splendid and not inferior to any of the other sublime productions of Verdi's genius.

The plot is an interesting episode of Italian life a few centuries ago, Fiesco, the Doge, Gabriel, and Maria are characters skilfully portrayed, some of them may not be what our recent civilization and principles have carried out for modern literature, but any one at all conversant with the history and scenes of the times will find truth in the minutest particulars of life in the Genoese Republic.

Gabriel sang well; his duet with Fiesco in which the composer published the singer's voice to its highest power of endurance, was splendid, and elicited great applause from the audience, yet we, humble reporters and dilettanti, would venture a suggestion for the future. Gabriel raises his voice to a higher tone than the orchestra and consequently drowns out of the bass with which it should ever be contrasted. We have noticed this twice or thrice.

The Duke did not sing badly, but we heard a general complaint at his levity which he carried so far as to open his eyes and laugh openly after the close of some of his songs, right and proper in a rehearsal, but we should advise him to abstain from it in public.

The orchestra played fairly, although we could clearly perceive by their attitude, some of the few better moments in the entire paper had produced the desired effect by making them more attentive.

The chorus as usual, by far, could not stir. Postcard manage that the female chorists should take their place properly on the stage, yet the desire to see the new opera, a happy expression of the general desire, appeared in the Tribuna, where a critic ac-the Provincial Legislature, as this is the only body that can make laws for the province. The Provincial Legislature is made up of the Premier and the Members of the Executive Council, who are appointed by the Premier. The Premier is the head of the province and is responsible for the administration of the province.
